

Do You Have a Child with Special Needs?

The Legal Assistance team offers special education consultation for EFMP families in the areas of federal IDEA, Section 504, and, if applicable, state education laws. Beyond consultations, Legal Assistance attorneys can assist with referrals to resources and non-profit organizations, should a family require more extensive representation. Expanded services may be available in Regions Southwest, Southeast and Mid-Atlantic.

Navy families can now access free legal resources and services on the MyNavy Family mobile application. Using only your personal device, you can complete Special Power of Attorney forms, fill in other important legal paperwork, or locate the nearest legal office. Visit <https://www.applocker.navy.mil> to learn more.

Managing life's challenges can look different for everyone.
You don't have to go through it alone.

Are You a Victim of Domestic Violence?

Help is Available

If you are a victim of domestic violence, or if you are in danger and fear for your safety, contact the police.

After you are safe, you may want to speak with a Legal Assistance attorney, who can help you explore legal options and link you to a wide range of military and civilian resources. Navy Legal Assistance attorneys also can provide victims legal advice regarding divorce, separation, and other support opportunities.

If you are located in San Diego, CA; Norfolk, VA; Bremerton, WA; or Jacksonville, FL, you may be able to speak with a specialized domestic violence attorney who is authorized to provide expanded legal services. They can assist victims with advocating for Military Protective Orders or obtaining Civilian Protective Orders, and they also provide referral services.

Legal Assistance attorneys are prohibited from advising on criminal matters; representing alleged abusers; and representing victims in courts for divorce, custody, and/or support matters.
